filig & STORAGE

Storage solutions that support
ORGANIZATION and EFFICIENCY

file this under 'S' FOR 'SMART'

A business can be responsible for many important documents and it's essential that they are stored in a safe place. An organized filing system keeps everyone on the same page (literally!). Communication in the workplace is key to its success and making sure items are in the place and order that they should be can have a positive impact on any business. There are many different types of filing and storage products that can accommodate your unique needs—from fire-rated filing cabinets to flat file storage to high-density filing systems that make the most of available square footage. The first step is to evaluate the types of documents you have and how often they need to be accessed and by whom.

safe and SECURE

When it comes to workplace design, long-term success stems from balancing the individual needs of today's agile workforce. To support the diversity of workstyles and workspaces required, the role of storage has needed to evolve. There are several modern storage solutions, like personal lockers and cubbies, that rise to the challenge with a more purposeful, multi-functional design that embraces the new hybrid workday.

UNDOUBTEDLY

assured and accessible

When it comes to storage, it's not only what's inside that counts. The exterior of your storage unit needs to hold up to high traffic and the weight of its contents. Steel models provide the greatest durability against repetitive use. They are also impact and scratch resistant, so cabinets will continue to look new even in demanding environments. However, as the storage workhorse, they are an investment and can be heavy and difficult to move. Therefore, they tend to be utilized in long-term team filing installations.
